EDPZ 529 Mindful Classroom Leadership: Strategies of Great Teachers

NEW COURSE!

Instructor: Fran Garcea Location: Jenmarc Classroom, 1350 Belmont Street, #101, Brockton MA 02301

Date/Time: Monday, October 15 at 4:15PM

Mindful teaching and, by extension, mindful teacher leadership, positions teaching as an act requiring principles, ethical rigor, open-mindedness, and acceptance of others' diverse ideas and experiences. It emphasizes professional expertise and teachers' prerogative to examine and judiciously implement prescribed programs and standards, which allows them to be creative and to exercise their professional judgment. It offers a myriad of ways to move forward for teacher leaders looking to approach their practice with a more open heart, with stronger connections, and with more contemplation and discernment. There are as many applications for a mindful approach to teaching and teacher leadership as there are professionals eager to practice them. This course examines the most successful of those strategies as practiced by great teachers.

EDPW 550 Education & Society: Trusted Strategies for Modern Times (3 graduate credits) NEW COURSE!

Instructor: Fran Garcea Location: Jenmarc Classroom, 1350 Belmont Street, #101, Brockton MA 02301

Date/Time: Monday, November 12 at 4:15PM

Students will explore critical social issues of human and civil rights in schools and institutional relationships, safety in schools on all levels including the "Bully-free; it starts with me" movement. Emerging theories and practical applications that influence the educator in today's society will be examined through readings and discussions. The course focuses upon the role of the teacher/counselor as innovator, decision-maker and scholar. The major purpose of this course is to help students formulate a foundation for critical thinking about economic, political and cultural influences on the development of educational and classroom policy.
